TIMBER FENCING

TIMBER AND METAL | HIGH QUALITY WORKMANSHIP | GATES TO MATCH

Timber fencing, and metal when it needs to be tougher.

Garden boundaries, privacy screens and security fencing. If a metal fence is outside the budget, timber is a good alternative. We will tell you which suits the job.

- Wooden fencing for gardens
- Slatted and privacy screens
- Gates to match
- Metal and security fencing

FENCE STYLE PHOTOS (1 OF 2)

TIMBER AND METAL | HIGH QUALITY WORKMANSHIP | GATES TO MATCH

Featherboard

Overlapping upright boards, thicker at one edge.

GOOD FOR A solid, traditional look.

THINK ABOUT Uses more timber than lighter panels.

Lap panel

Thin horizontal boards overlapped in a ready-made panel.

GOOD FOR Ready-made panels, quick to fit.

THINK ABOUT A lighter build than boards. Ask us about exposed sites.

Slatted

Horizontal slats with small gaps between them. The modern look.

GOOD FOR A clean, contemporary style with air flow.

THINK ABOUT Gaps between the slats. Ask us about privacy.

Double slatted

Slats fixed on both sides of the rails.

GOOD FOR A modern, closed-in look.

THINK ABOUT More material and fitting time than single slatted.

FENCE STYLE PHOTOS (2 OF 2)

TIMBER AND METAL | HIGH QUALITY WORKMANSHIP | GATES TO MATCH

Hit and miss

Boards fixed alternately either side of the rails, with gaps between them.

GOOD FOR A varied look that lets air through.

THINK ABOUT Not fully solid. Ask us about privacy.

Picket

Short upright pales with gaps. Usually a front garden boundary.

GOOD FOR A welcoming, traditional front boundary.

THINK ABOUT Open gaps, so not a privacy or security fence.

Combination

A solid lower section with trellis or slats above.

GOOD FOR A solid lower section with a lighter top.

THINK ABOUT Needs more parts, so planning and fitting take more care.

Metal panel

Powder-coated steel panels or railings fixed between posts.

GOOD FOR Strong and secure. Our speciality.

THINK ABOUT Ask us how it compares on cost.

METAL FENCING STYLES

TIMBER AND METAL | HIGH QUALITY WORKMANSHIP | GATES TO MATCH

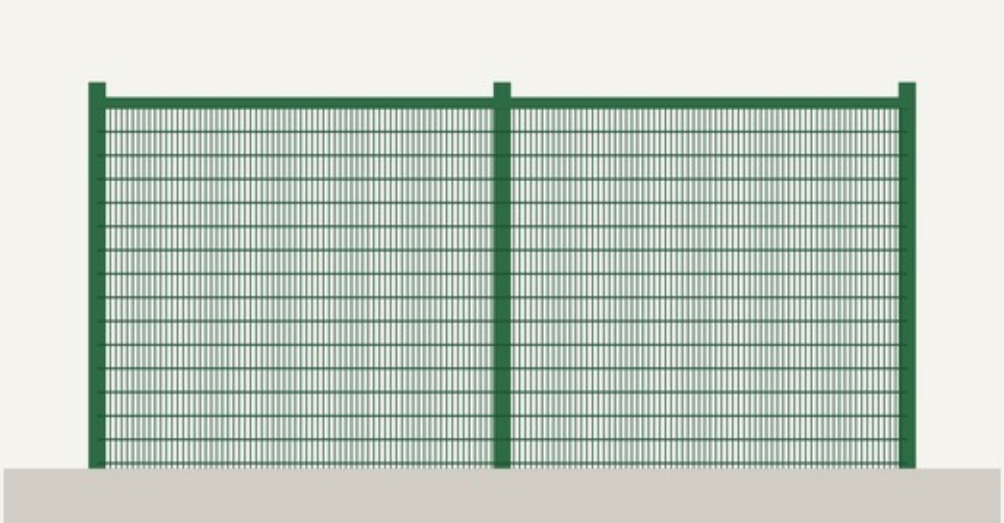

METAL FENCING

Palisade fencing

Upright steel pales with pointed tops, fixed to rails between posts.

GOOD FOR Strong, tall fencing for yards and boundaries.

THINK ABOUT A hard, industrial look. Ask us about heights and finishes.

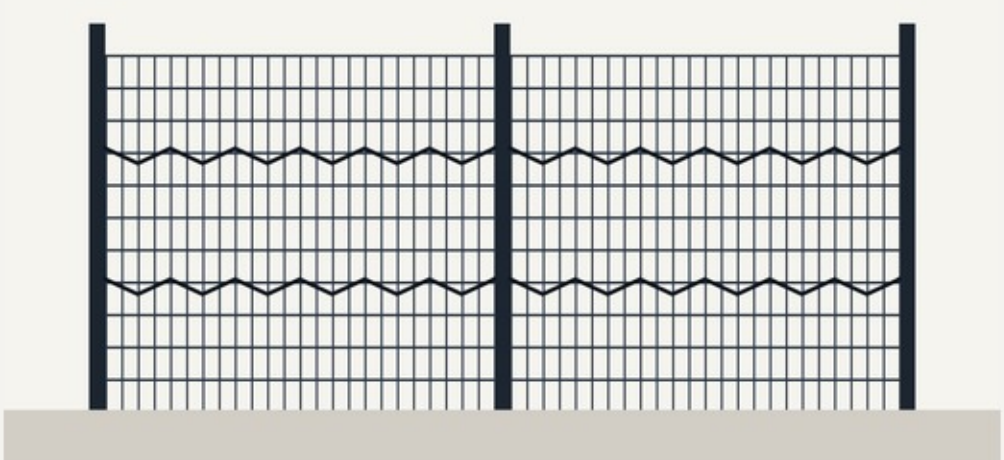

METAL FENCING

358 (prison mesh) security fencing

Welded steel mesh with very small openings, held between posts. Also called prison mesh.

GOOD FOR Very small openings that are hard to climb.

THINK ABOUT A dense, closed look. Ask us about colours and gates to match.

METAL FENCING

V-mesh welded panel fencing

Welded wire mesh panels with V-shaped folds, fixed to posts.

GOOD FOR Light and open, and practical for larger sites.

THINK ABOUT You can see through it, so it gives little privacy.

METAL FENCING STYLES (2)

TIMBER AND METAL | HIGH QUALITY WORKMANSHIP | GATES TO MATCH

METAL FENCING

Perforated panel fencing

Metal sheet with round holes, held between bars.

GOOD FOR Some privacy, with light and air still passing through.

THINK ABOUT Solid-looking panels. Ask us about the hole size and finish.

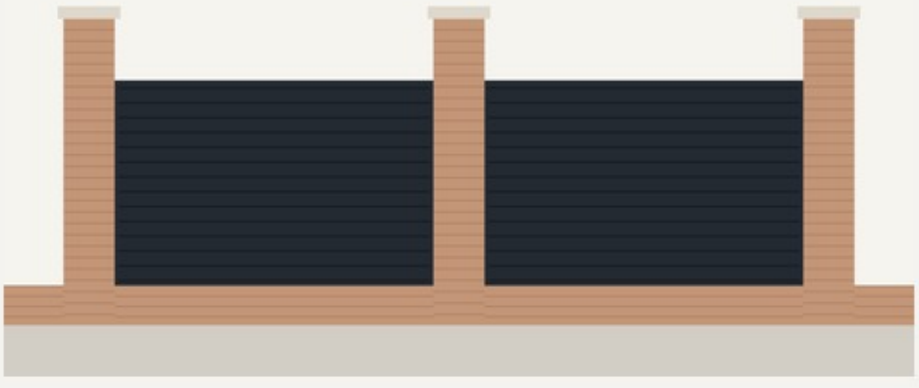

METAL FENCING

Bar railing fencing

Upright steel bars between posts, often on a low brick wall.

GOOD FOR A smart, secure boundary that you can see through.

THINK ABOUT Ask us about height, finish and the top style.

METAL FENCING

Solid panel infill fencing

Closed panels fixed between brick pillars or posts.

GOOD FOR Privacy and a clean modern boundary.

THINK ABOUT Nothing can be seen through it. Ask us about the finish.
