WHICH GLASS?

SUPPLIED AND FITTED | HIGH QUALITY WORKMANSHIP | SAFE AND SECURE

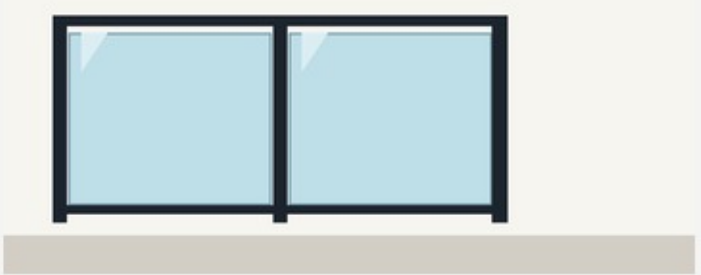

HOW IT IS HELD

Frameless glass

Glass panels held at the base, with no posts between them.

GOOD FOR A clean, open look that keeps the view.

THINK ABOUT It relies on the structure it is fixed to, so we check that first.

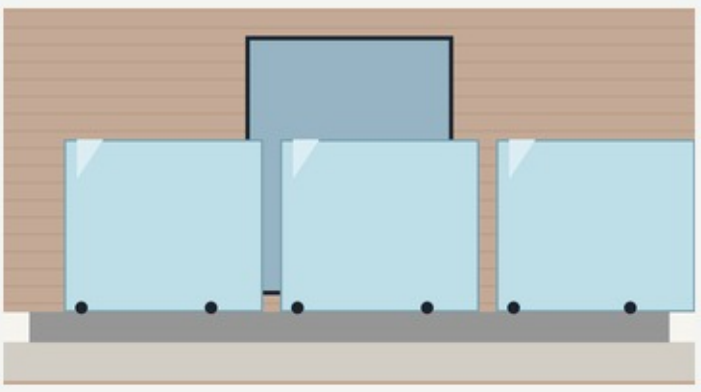

HOW IT IS HELD

Post-and-glass

Glass panels held between posts, with metalwork and fixings to suit your property.

GOOD FOR Posts and fixings matched to your property.

THINK ABOUT More metalwork shows than with frameless glass.

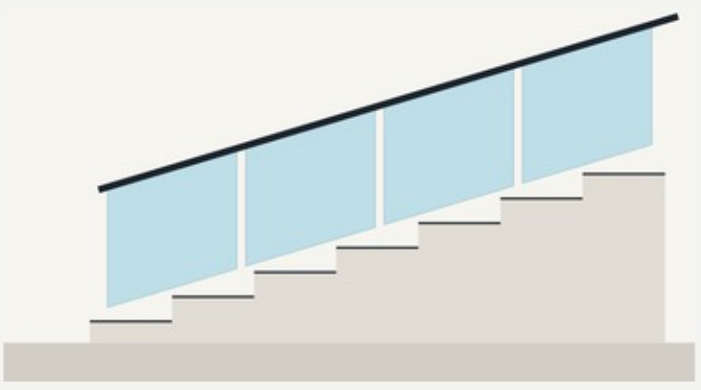

WHERE IT GOES

Balcony and terrace glass

Glass along the edge of a balcony, terrace or raised deck.

GOOD FOR Keeps the view and light on a balcony or terrace.

THINK ABOUT We advise which style suits your edge. Send us a photo.

WHERE IT GOES

Staircase glass

Glass that follows the line of your stairs, inside or out.

GOOD FOR An open, modern look beside stairs.

THINK ABOUT Every stair is different, so we check it before advising a style.

Tell us about your job

Send a photo of where it will go, rough width and height, the style you like and your postcode. We will come back with advice and a quote.

GLASS: HOW IT IS HELD

SUPPLIED AND FITTED | HIGH QUALITY WORKMANSHIP | SAFE AND SECURE

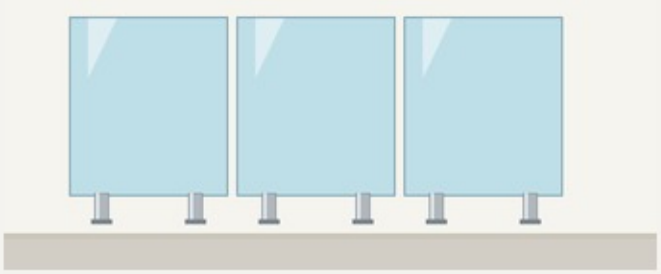

HOW IT IS HELD

Glass in a base channel

Glass panels held in a channel along the bottom edge, with no posts between them.

GOOD FOR The cleanest, most open look, with nothing in the way of the view.

THINK ABOUT The channel needs a strong, level edge. We check first.

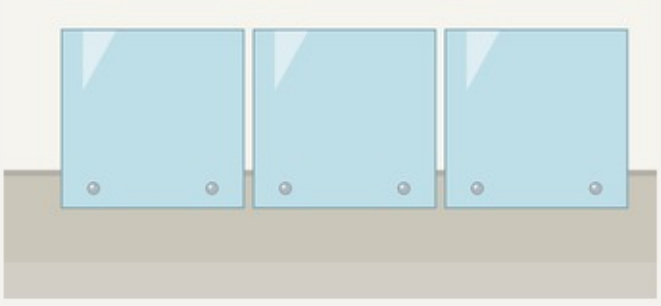

HOW IT IS HELD

Glass on spigots

Glass panels held at the base by round metal spigots, with no posts between them.

GOOD FOR Open and modern, and the spigots keep the lines simple.

THINK ABOUT Spigots fix into the deck or edge, so we check what is underneath.

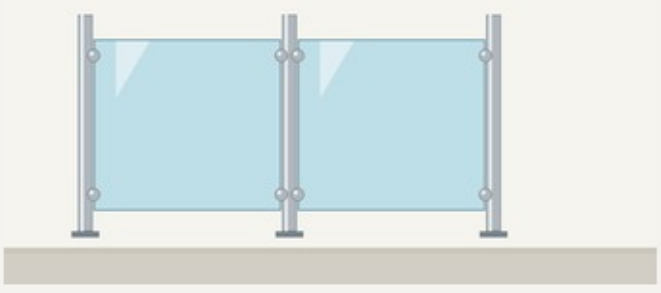

HOW IT IS HELD

Face-fixed glass with round fixings

Glass fixed to the face of a slab or edge with round metal fixings.

GOOD FOR Keeps the top of the deck or balcony clear.

THINK ABOUT Needs a solid edge to fix into. Send us a photo.

HOW IT IS HELD

Posts with glass clamps

Metal posts with round clamps holding the glass panels between them.

GOOD FOR A clear, practical look with a straight run of posts.

THINK ABOUT More metal shows than with frameless glass.

HOW IT IS HELD

Metal-framed glass

Glass panels set in a metal frame with posts, with metalwork to suit your property.

GOOD FOR The frame ties in with railings and gates elsewhere.

THINK ABOUT The most metalwork on show of the glass styles.

GLASS: MORE CHOICES

SUPPLIED AND FITTED | HIGH QUALITY WORKMANSHIP | SAFE AND SECURE

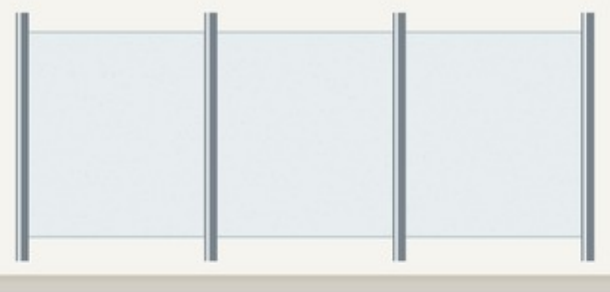

EXTRA CHOICES

Glass with a handrail on top

Glass panels with a metal rail along the top.

GOOD FOR A rail to hold on to, and a firm finished line.

THINK ABOUT Adds a rail to the look. Ask us whether you need one.

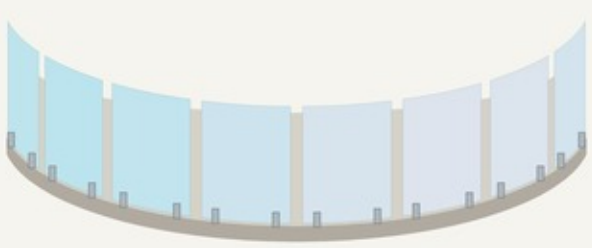

EXTRA CHOICES

Frosted glass

Glass with a frosted finish that lets the light through but hides the view.

GOOD FOR Privacy on a balcony, terrace or garden edge.

THINK ABOUT You lose the clear view through the glass.

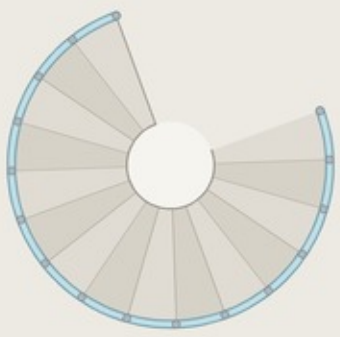

EXTRA CHOICES

Curved glass

Glass that follows the curve of a terrace or balcony edge.

GOOD FOR Follows a curved edge without cutting up the line.

THINK ABOUT Made to your curve, so we need to see the edge first.

EXTRA CHOICES

Curved stair glass

Glass that follows the curve of a stair, with round fixings along the edge.

GOOD FOR An open, flowing look beside a curved stair.

THINK ABOUT Every curve is different. Send us a photo or drawing.

Seen a design you like? Send us a photo, sketch or drawing and we'll discuss making it for your space.

Drawings show style examples. We confirm what suits your job.
